CHURCHES

Welcome The King

An Advent Editorial Thought
By REV. PAUL WENSKE
"Lift up your heads, O ye gates, and be ye lifted up, ye everlasting doors. This dramatic appeal, addressed to the gates and doors of Jerusalem, is meant for the inhabitants of Zion, the Church of the old and new covenant. The doors and gates are to be opened wide in hearty welcome and joyous reception for the King of Kings and Lord of Lords. When the solo voice asks 'Who is this King of Glory?' the chorus answers in glad and powerful strains, 'The Lord of hosts, He is the King of Glory.' Yes, Jesus, the incarnate only begotten Son of God, is the Lord of Glory, whom all the hosts of Heaven worship and adore. The message of the Bible proclaims that Jesus comes as the Redeemer of the World, and this has been the confession of the Christian Church throughout all ages. He that comes is not a mere man, an illustrious earthly king of might and glory; He is our God, Shall not the gates be lifted up and the doors be opened wide to welcome such a King? Yes, and our hearts too must be opened wide to welcome this King.
Jesus comes as our Hero, who is to meet the foes of mankind, sin, Satan, death and hell. Jesus does not come as we often suppose, from the galling yoke of political bondage, but from the far worse bondage of sin and spiritual slavery; not from earthly foes, but from our spiritual enemies.
Before Christ rises the agony of Gethsemane, the condemnation of the Sanhedrin, the shame and cruelty before Pontius Pilate's tribunal, the excruciating pain of Golgotha's cross, and finally the chill of the rock-hewn grave in Joseph's garden.
The King of Glory, mighty in battle, comes to take up the gauntlet with the enemies that hold us captive and to engage in the most momentous battle the world has ever witnessed: the battle of the redemption of the world.
We know the outcome. Our King has been victorious. The battle has been won. Gethsemane, Calvary, the empty tomb, are emblems and signs of victory and glorious triumph. Now there is peace, everlasting peace, through the blood of the everlasting covenant, peace between God and sinful men. 'The strife at last is ended.' The blessed message of advent. Your King goes out to battle for us, to bleed for us, to die for us, to triumph for us.
May the gates of our hearts be lifted up and the portals of our souls be opened to welcome this glorious victorious King. Let none postpone. Let none wait for a more convenient season. That convenient time may never come. Now is the accepted time, now is the day of salvation.

Thanksgiving Services Set By Scientists
In conformity with the Proclamation by the President of the United States, Thanksgiving Day services will be held in all branches of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston. The public is cordially invited to services at the local branch of the Mother Church. The Torrance church is located at 218th street and Manuel avenue. The service starts at 10:30 a.m., rather than the usual time of 11 a.m.
The Proclamation, designating the day as a day of thanksgiving, will be read by the First Reader. A period will be set aside for the giving of testimonies by Christian Scientists appropriate for the occasion.
The Golden Text of the Thanksgiving Day Lesson-Scripture is from I Thessalonians, and reads, "In every thing give thanks: for this is the will of God in Christ Jesus concerning you."

Special Lutheran Services Set for Thanksgiving Day
The First Lutheran Church will celebrate Thanksgiving Day with a special church service to be held at 9:30 in the morning. The public is invited to attend this service.
Evening worship services at the church are held Sunday at 7:30 p.m.

Flight Strip Woman Injured
Ruth Davis, 22, of Lomita Flight Strip, was injured Friday night in an auto collision at the intersection of Rosecrans and Inglewood streets.
Melvin G. Davis, 23, driver of one of the cars, told deputies that the operator of the vehicle ran a boulevard sign then crashed into the Davis auto.
Ruth Davis was treated at Tri-City hospital for head and face lacerations and possible concussion following the crash at 10:45 p.m.

Sex Education is Topic Of Monday Lecture Here

"Role of the School in Sex Education" is the subject for Dr. Ralph Eckert, speaker in the "Magic Mondays in November" lecture, to be held in the Torrance High School Auditorium Monday night, November 28, at 7:30.
The film "Human Growth," highly publicized by Life Magazine, will also be shown. This is a modern, scientific approach to the subject of when and how to tell the story of life to children.
As a psychologist Dr. Eckert has written widely for educational publications.
